

Zoe Bartlett is a Senior Microbiologist with Food Standards Australia New Zealand. Her work at FSANZ contributes to the microbiological evidence base underpinning national standards, strategic science work to reduce foodborne illness, and surveillance of the national food supply. Zoe is the Project Manager for the Australian national surveillance of antimicrobial resistant bacteria in retail food project that she will be talking about today.