

Gyu-Sung Cho has been a principal investigator since 2013 at a federal research institute. Researcher with 25+ years experiences in microbiology (food fermentation and antibiotic resistance bacteria), molecular biology (whole genome sequencing with short and long read sequence platforms), and bioinformatic to take projects and to contribute to publications. Extensive international collaboration experiences to carry out EU, international, and national projects.