Robert Böhm is a professor in psychology at the Universities of Vienna (Austria) and Copenhagen (Denmark). His main research focus is on human judgment and decision making in response to societal challenges, such as pandemics and antimicrobial resistance. He is member of the Austrian COVID-19 crisis coordination committee as well as member and vice chair of the Technical Advisory Group on Behavioral and Cultural Insights, WHO/Europe. For further details, see https://www.robertboehm.info